What It's All About...

The 9 day teacher program will follow the same schedule as the 11 day residential student program. Teachers will have the option of participating in evening and weekend activities.

In this program, teachers and students work on an equal level and step into the shoes of a new college student. A typical morning will include general "College 101" sessions, including topics such as time & stress management, study skills, and conflict resolution. These skills could easily be incorporated into daily lessons.

After lunch, participants will attend classes in a specialty focus area taught by Wayne State faculty and staff. Professors from the areas of Nursing, Medicine, Social Work, Engineering and Pharmacy & Health Sciences have modified college level courses to include hands on, interactive college learning experiences.

What makes this experience different is participation on an interprofessional education (IPE) team. An IPE team will be made up of one teacher from each specialty area. Each team will be challenged with the task of addressing the health care disparity of diabetes by developing a research poster and project. Teams will compete at the end of the camp. The top three teams will be recognized at the Presentation Showcase & Gala on Thursday evening.

Throughout the week, special events and social activities are built into the schedule. Teachers who choose to participate will get a sense of what Wayne State University in Detroit's Midtown area is really like.

Planned activities include open mic nights, campus scavenger hunts, the Climbing Wall and Team Initiative Course (located at the Mort Harris Rec Center). Weekend activities consist of a community service project, and on and off campus activities.

On the morning of Thursday, August 6th, teachers will have the opportunity to speak with representatives from the WSU Admissions Department.

On Thursday afternoon and evening, the IPE teams will present their research poster and project to a panel of judges. Posters and Projects will be on display at the Showcase Gala to be held at the Eugene Applebaum College Pharmacy and Health. In addition to all participants being recognized, the winning top team will be announced.
