Dear Mr. Neal,

Please accept my sincere congratulations! With a 96.5 out of a possible 100 points, it is official, the Wayne State University College of Nursing C2 Pipeline is the first program of its kind to receive STEM Accreditation™. In addition, 30 instructors (15 WSU & 15 partnering school's staff members) have earned their individual STEM Certification™ credential issued by STEM.org™. This achievement exhibits a true excellence in Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics (STEM) education. Your collective dedication to learning the principles and pedagogy involved with this process clearly demonstrate that you, your team and organization are a cut above the rest. This achievement will be an inspiration to others who strive to be the best and reflects favorably upon your inherent ability as a role model to those who strive to demonstrate effective STEM strategies in their communities.

Your attention to detail and dedication have placed you in the unique but challenging position of leading others through your example, while helping position yourselves in the ever-changing, highly competitive 21st century global economy. It is a well-deserved and hard-won honor in which you should be proud.

There is no doubt that the network of hardworking individuals, including yourself, who comprise the Wayne State University College of Nursing C2 Pipeline Program possess the skills, passion, and determination to improve the well-being of your constituents. Keep "aiming high" and thank you for your unyielding support for STEM education.

Warm Regards,

Andrew B. Raupp, HKSE
